... this would be our press release, if we weren't two days past the deadline and if you weren't still rocking on to strange&seltsamer...

dear listener
we welcome you with a casual „faked.info“ and are very pleased to announce, that we succeeded in ending a long period of bad weather with our new ep on Bruchstuecke. Here it is, our second release as „faked.info“. You're invited to play fast and loose with our name and accuse us of producing groundless Dubtechno. Throughout many years we've always aimed at preserving the good old Berlin tradition of SLOW ACID!
It is our wish to satisfy our customers and respect by personal contact and sales. We also would like to take advantage of this press release and mention that we have more products to showcase. This time we have focused on the newest and hottest shit, which is expected to be presented live at the next Mayday and the annual teens festival near Eppelheim (please check www.eppelheim.de), as we expected.

Everybody else, who doesn't really like to leave the house, is recommended to visit our brand new website <http://faked.info>, which will be online yesterday.

... is this faked.info?
